HOLBROOK, ARIZONA, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1903.

No. 11.

Legislature Doings.

Thursday—The house passed the following bills:

One providing that county recorders shall receive fees for preparing and certifying to any abstract of title. Mr. Marlar's bill repealing the law allowing the appointment of a county immigration commissioner in counties of the first class. Mr. Gonzales' bill allowing the widow of Ranger Tafallo the sum of $600 annually.

Friday—The house passed the bill granting women the right to vote. But little business was dispensed with in the council.

The commissioners from Utah were given to understand that the cession of northwestern Arizona to Utah would be impossible.

Monday—The house passed two bills, one providing the election of county assessors in counties of the first, second and third classes. The other was the live stock bill introduced by Mr. Bernard.

The council passed three bills, viz: Mr. Ives' bill providing for the redistricting of the judicial districts. Mr. Marlar's bill concerning the offices of trustees in school districts. Mr. Collin's bill concerning the fish and game commissioners of the territory.

Mr. Gonzales' measure to cut the salaries of county officers and the bill providing for the appointment of assistant district attorneys were killed.

Tuesday—Some one stole house bill No. 31 from the desk of the chief clerk of the council. House bill No. 10, relating to the collection of poll or school taxes, passed the council. This bill now goes the governor for approval.

The members of the legislature visited the Tempe normal school in the afternoon.

Wednesday—A substitute to house bill No. 31, which was stolen yesterday, was passed by the council. This bill, which relates to the registration of voters at city elections, now goes to the governor.

House bill No. 39, giving transportation companies certain rights as to the disposition of baggage held over two months, was passed by the house.

After a heated debate in the house Mr. St. Charles' primary election bill was defeated by a vote of 12 to 12.

Territorial Notes.

Ranger Webb, who shot Lon Bass at Douglas last week, was given a hearing before Justice Johnson and was bound over to appear before the grand jury on a charge of murder. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

While thawing out sticks of dynamite in warm water at Saford last Saturday, a terrific explosion occurred, killing two miners outright and injuring two more. Some fifteen or twenty men had left the spot a few minutes before the explosion.

An order has been received at army headquarters in Denver from the war department for the abandonment of Fort Grant, Arizona. Four troops of the Fourteenth cavalry stationed there are to be sent Ft. Huachuca, Arizona, which will be the headquarters of the regiment. The abandonment is due to the lack of a proper water supply.

Below we publish a couple of items which will make the stockholders of the Sonora Mining and Milling Co. smile.

Con O'Keefe, accompanied by Eugene J. Snyder, of Ithica New York, has returned from his visit to New York and other eastern points, where he has been in the interest of the Sonora Mining and Milling company. He brings back the news that the company is now abundantly financed with all the money necessary for future purposes. The stock of the company is now at par and no more offered for sale.—Tucson Star, Feb. 12.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sonora Mining and Milling Co. was held here Monday and officers chosen as follows: Con O'Keefe, president and general manager; J. H. Smith, vice president; Robt. McKinnon, secretary; John Dessart, treasurer. These gentlemen and E. B. Gage, of Tombstone, form the directors of the company. W. E. Defty was retained as consulting engineer. The work of development will now be rapidly pushed.—Phoenix Enterprise.

Passing of the Cowboy.

Frederic Remington, an artist, sculptor and illustrator of international reputation, was in El Paso the other day en route to New York. In talking about the west and western conditions, Mr. Remington said:

"Things have changed materially since I was in this section. I visited southern Arizona and northern New Mexico along in the early eighties, and we had lively times then. Now the typical westerner is the exception rather than the rule. There is in reality no west as it was in those days. The old-time cowboy and dare-devil desperado are things of the past. The cowboy is practically extinct. I should say that he is as extinct as the Dodo and the old west is practically the same way. I have been all over it and am well qualified as to my statements. The cowboys who go around roping make a business of it and the old styles of life. As a matter of fact the old life is almost done away with."—Citizen.

Will Continue

To Bar Sheep.

A dispatch from Washington says:

The interior department will continue to enforce its regulation prescribing penalties for trespass of sheep on forest reserves notwithstanding the decision of Judge Hanbury of Seattle that such regulation was unconstitutional.

The department takes the position that nullification of its regulation regarding sheep trespassing would defeat the real water storage object of the forest reserves.

The Seattle decision is in line with the decision of several years ago by the California court, but the attorney general had advised the secretary of the interior according to the department that the right to make the regulations which the Seattle court declared to be unconstitutional was conferred by an act of congress June 4, 1897, authorizing the department to regulate the occupancy and care of forest reserves.

The Government will Dam the Colorado.

At a point called Bull's Head Canyon, about two miles below the New Comstock mines, on the Colorado river, is where the United States Government will construct a dam. The diamond drill which is now at work there has just finished the first of the nine holes to be drilled into the river bed. The first forty feet was through sand and gravel and the next fifteen feet was in granite of quality that will make a secure foundation for the dam.

There are, approximately, 50,000 acres of land that will be brought under cultivation below the dam and above the Needles. The dam will be 100 feet high and electric power will be generated and sold to the mining companies operating in the vicinity, at the actual cost of generating it. All the land to be benefited has been withdrawn from entry and will not be open for entry until the work has been completed, which will be about two years. Its construction will entail an expenditure of over $1,000,000.—Yuma Sun.
